

Spring 2011

The Lunenburg Conservation Commission is establishing a trail stewards program. Trail stewards are thoughtful and responsible citizens who are committed to sustaining conservation land for future generations. This key group of volunteers will work with the Commission and commit to monitoring trails, support light trail maintenance as planned and permitted by the Commission, assist with trail maps and signs, encourage crime prevention efforts, and report back on trail conditions regularly. Interested citizens are encouraged to apply to the Commission.

Please contact Jan at the Conservation Commission office to schedule a time to come and meet with us. 978-582-4146.

Welcome!
